

Research Gets Rolling

“Model Conservation and Management Plan for the Creole Cemeteries of New Orleans”

Phase One research has begun in St. Louis Cemetery No. I for the Geographic Information Systems (GIS) mapping survey funded by a grant from the State Historic Preservation Office.

Preservation Studies Program students from Tulane University's School of Architecture are researching a wonderful selection of historically significant tombs in St. Louis Cemetery No. I and are creating measured drawings of the structures.

This documentation will be invaluable research which can be used to find missing owners, encourage restorations, and assist genealogists.
